Praise for What Diplomats Do

"I have no hesitation in saying that I know of no other book on diplomacy which is so instructive as to procedure, entertaining in its examples, vivid and engaging in its style, massively authoritative, and original in its structure..." —G. R. Berridge, Emeritus Professor of International Politics, University of Leicester and Senior Fellow, DiploFoundation

"...For students of international relations, the book offers great value, breathing life into what they would have learnt in abstract fashion." —Professor Emeritus Ambassador Kishan Rana, former Indian ambassador, writer, teacher and honorary fellow, Institute of Chinese Studies, Delhi

"I know of no comparable book, let alone one providing an insider's view of what, from day to day, diplomats actually do, what this feels like, and what impact it has on the life of the diplomat and his or her family. I will be strongly recommending this most readable and interesting book as essential reading for all my diplomatic studies students." —Dr Lorna Lloyd, Senior Research Fellow in International Relations, Keele University

"...I think it excellent and certainly will plan to use it in my Diplomacy course. I found reading its chapters irresistible, like eating peanuts. And it is candid and fun." —Alan Henrikson, Lee E. Dirks Professor of Diplomatic History, The Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Tufts University.

"It does ... what it promises: it tells you exactly what it's like to be a diplomat and what sort of challenges you face on an every-day basis..." —Sir Ivor Roberts KCMG FCIL, President of Trinity College, Oxford University, former British ambassador to Yugoslavia, Ireland and Italy
